FIRST DISTRICT MEN IN CONGRESS

BRIEF HISTORY OF THOSE WHO HAVE SERVED SINCE DAYS OF SECESSION.

Statesboro, Ga., Oct. 25.—Believing that a great many of our people are interested in the history of those individuals who have represented the First Congressional District in Georgia, I have compiled some data with reference to the service of the First district's representatives in congress since the War Between the States.

The district has been represented in congress by fourteen different individuals since 1865. The first to succeed from the Union on January 23, 1865, he represented in congress and one of her senators terminated their service by withdrawal during the month of January, 1865. Senator Robert Toombs was the only Georgian who occupied his seat in either branch of the congress after the date of secession, January 23, 1865. His seat was declared vacant on March 14, 1865. Georgia had no representation in the 37th, 38th and 39th Congresses. No new senators represented the state of Georgia until February, 1871.

Joseph W. Clift, of Savannah, took his seat as representative in congress of the First district on July 25, 1868, along with five other Georgians as follows: Nelson Tift of Albany; William H. Prince, of Augusta; and Pierce M. B. Young, of Cartersville. William W. Payne, also of Savannah, represented the First district in the 41st Congress. Archibald T. MacIntyre, of Thomasville, was the duly elected representative of the First district in the 42nd Congress. He served from March 4, 1871, until March 3, 1873. Morgan Rawls, of Guyton, served in the 43rd Congress from March 4, 1873, until March 24, 1874. His election was successfully contested by Andrew Sloan, of Savannah, who was seated in Rawls' stead on March 24, 1874.

Julian Hartridge, of Savannah, was the district's representative in the 44th Congress and during a portion of the 45th Congress. He died on January 8, 1879. His period of service was from March 4, 1875, to January 8, 1879. He was succeeded by William B. Fleming, also of Savannah.

GROWING DEMAND FOR FARM LANDS
MORE THAN A HALF MILLION DOLLARS WORTH SOLD CENTRALLY BY FEDERAL BANK
Columbia, S. C., Oct. 30.—Indicating the growing demand for farm lands, the Federal Land Bank of Columbia received in the first three weeks of October contracts for the sale of over $600,000 worth of farm lands, acquired by it in the past several years, Julian H. Scarborough, president, announced today. The farms are located in the four states served by the bank, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Contracts for the sale of $66,800 worth of land were received on one day, October 23, Mr. Scarborough said, and inquiries continue to pour in daily from prospective purchasers. The prices being received for the land are the best in five years, he said.

"The steady increase in the demand for farm lands is best shown," Mr. Scarborough said, "by the records of the real estate department of the bank for the past six months. In April contracts for the sale of approximately $37,000 worth of land were submitted to the bank; in May approximately $111,000; in June approximately $369,000; in August approximately $481,000; in September approximately $513,000, and already in October over $600,000, with the real estate department predicting that it will go over $700,000 this month. In October, 1933, the contracts submitted were for only $171,000 worth of land."

"While the demand for farm lands in July, August and September came from the tobacco belt, the demand has now spread nearly all over the district. The principal demand continues for farms of 200 acres and less."

Fire at Gin Tuesday Does $12,000 Damage
Fire damage estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000 was sustained Tuesday afternoon when the Brannen ginny on West Main street, operated by L. E. Brannen and owned by him and E. A. Smith, was almost totally destroyed.

The cause of the first was not determined. The gin was in operation when the blaze sprang up and a large quantity of cotton was burned. All machinery except the engines, which were in a separate department a little distance away, was destroyed. Only partial insurance covered the damage.

CERTIFICATE POOL BE CLOSED NOV. 10
HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES ARE GIVEN FINAL LIMIT IN WHICH TO MAKE SALES.
Announcement of tentative plans for closing the surplus cotton tax exemption certificate pool for the receipt of surplus certificates on November 10th has been received by Byron Dyer, county agent, from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Purchase of certificates from the pool, he emphasized, would continue so long as the pool had certificates on hand.

E. L. Deal, manager of the pool, said it was felt that all holders of surplus certificates who wish to turn them into the pool will have had that opportunity by November 10th. The state allotment board will assist producers who wish to turn in surplus certificates to the pool.

"Because we have tentatively selected a final date for receiving surplus certificates," Mr. Deal said, "it is now more urgent than ever that producers speed up the surrender of any certificates they wish to offer for sale through the pool."

For many more certificates than it is able to fill, Mr. Deal said. On all of these orders, the purchasers expect to pay four cents a pound, the rate fixed by Secretary Wallace as the standard selling price for surplus certificates purchased through the national pool.

Producers will be paid approximately $20 a bale for all certificates sold through the pool. When the pool is liquidated, each producer will be returned the share of any certificates the pool does not sell. These may be used next year if the Bankhead Act is effective for 1935.

Maybe the administration expects to get rid of the biggest deficit in history by plowing it under.

The game tomorrow with Cochran will start at 3:15 p. m. Admission will be 35c and 75c.

The cotton adjustment program will be continued in 1935, according to an announcement received by Byron Dyer, county agent, from officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. This clears the way for contract signers to make farming plans for next season with the assurance that the voluntary program will be made effective under terms of the two-year contracts, it was stated.

The cotton section of the AAA is now developing plans for the 1935 adjustment program which will be announced when the secretary of agriculture formally proclaims the contract measures will be continued. This is expected before December 1.

Under terms of the contracts the reduction in 1935 cannot be more than 25 per cent of the base acreage as compared with 35 to 45 per cent this year. The entire cotton situation, both foreign and domestic, is being thoroughly canvassed, in planning the new program, it was stated. Producers who did not sign the present two-year contracts will have an opportunity to do so next year.

In addition to enabling contract signers to make plans for next year, the announcement of a continuance of the voluntary reduction program will also prevent any misunderstanding of the relationship between the Bankhead Act, it was stated. The Bankhead Act will be continued effective for the second year of the program, and it is regarded as assured that a new name will be submitted for that station. Dr. J. H. Whiteside is president at this time and Prince H. Preston secretary-treasurer.

Plans are now under way to give producers an opportunity to express an opinion on the Bankhead Act, but regardless of this decision the voluntary adjustment program will be continued into 1935.

The real all claim to be pacificists but they would not be averse to a war between Japan and the United States.

Properly engraved, an honor of which his friends are proud, the mother before her marriage was Miss Ethel Odum of Screven county.

Those selecting the direct sale method received $1,019,077, while those participating in the cotton producers pool received $7,451,683.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday officers will be elected

The costumes carried out in full the Halloween spirit. At a late hour Mrs. Cromley served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hall and daughter, Henrietta, had a narrow escape Saturday on their way from Statesboro when a car ran into their car as it was making a turn into a side road.

Mr. Hall's car was turned over. Mrs. Hall sustained a broken bone in her right hand and the other occupants received a few minor injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shearouse and Mrs. E. C. Watkins attended the funeral of little Tommy Middleton, old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Middleton, of Dublin, Thursday.

Mr. Middleton was a former vocational teacher in the school here. The little boy had tottered to a pool in the yard and was drowned when found. He had been out of sight only a very few minutes.

Miss Laura Bell Barnard, of Glenview, a missionary to India, conducted a series of services at the Methodist church here the past week end.

On Saturday night she directed her talk especially to the young people and chose as her subject, "Stop, Look, Listen." As a fitting climax to her Saturday night lecture, Mrs. T. R. Bryan Jr. and Mrs. F. W. Elarbee on Sunday morning, sang "Take Time to Be Holy."

The beauty contest in which fifty pretty girls from Brooklet, Stilson, Leefield, Ogeechee, Nevils and Denmark communities entered, came to a close Friday night, with Miss Mary Elizabeth Elarbee the winner. Never was there such an array of beauty on display as was on the stage. The contest was entirely by elimination, by disinterested judges.

The steepest contest for first place were Mary Elizabeth Elarbee and Mary Katharine Alderman. The decision was finally in favor of Miss Elarbee, presented by Lee's Cash Store. This entitles Miss Elarbee to a free trip to Atlanta in January to contest for "Miss Georgia."

The contest was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association here. It was made possible by the leading business houses of this community, the surrounding communities, Stilson, Statesboro and Savannah, who loyally gave their support to the cause.

FARM AND HOME

For Greater Yields Control Oat Smuts

In addition to seed treatment, the only control for oat smuts in past years, we now have smut-resistant varieties one of which is also called resistant, thanks to plant breeding.

Many other farmers planting smut-resistant varieties will decide to treat seed when they recall the unusually large percentage of smut-affected heads found in their fields last spring. These farmers should insist on treated seed or treat the seed themselves at a cost of only a few cents per bushel.

Of the several methods of treating oat seed with formaldehyde the "sprinkle method" is most often used. The steps of this method are as follows:

1. Dump the seed on a clean floor or in a tight box, bin or wagon body.

2. Add one pint of formaldehyde to 40 gallons of water, sufficient to treat 50 bushels. Sprinkle this while shoveling the oats from one pile to another, using one gallon to every one and one-fourth bushels of oats.

3. Cover the pile with sacks which have been wet with the formaldehyde solution, and leave at least two hours, or overnight if desired.

4. Sow immediately, making allowance for swollen seed by setting the drill to sow one-fourth more per acre.

5. If sowing is delayed, spread and dry thoroughly.

Last Call for Oats

A last call, but an urgent call, for the planting of oats. The call is made particularly to those farmers who have not planted as much oats as they might have because of uncertainty regarding the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's cotton acreage plans for 1935.

Now that Secretary of Agriculture H. A. Wallace has stated in a preliminary announcement that the cotton control plans will continue into 1935 with an acreage reduction of 25 per cent or less of the base acreage, Dr. Long suggests that farmers proceed to plant other crops, including oats, for the acres taken out of cotton.

The best planting time for oats, September and October, is gone, but oats planted now on good land, it is pointed out, will still make satisfactory yields. Fair yields are sometimes made from spring sowings, but spring planting results in lower yields and does not mature early enough for land to be most profitably used the following summer.

These facts about oats may be well considered by farmers:

1. Oats will occupy to advantage acres taken out of cotton.

2. Oats will help meet the greater consumption of feed because of the Western cattle.

3. Oats are adapted to practically all soils of the state and are more and safer as a crop than corn and can be grown at much lower cash outlay.

Processing Tax is Farmer's Tariff

"The cotton processing tax is the cotton farmer's tariff," says Cully A. Cobb, chief of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's cotton section. "Like tariff duties, the processing tax is passed on to consumers of cotton products. It is paid upon the conversion of raw cotton into consumers' goods and applied to the net weight of cotton entering manufacturing."

As provided by law, the rate of tax shall not be greater than the difference between the parity price of cotton and the current average farm price. The parity price of cotton is the price which would give cotton at least a purchasing power, in terms of the things a farmer buys, as it had in the years 1910 to 1914.

Provision is made for change in the rate of the processing tax in case the tax should tend to cause consumption to decrease and surplus stocks to accumulate and cause a depression in the farm price of cotton.

The cotton processing tax is paid by the consumer who buys articles manufactured from cotton, not by the producer or the processor. The fact that the processing tax is collected at the gins which are all in the South does not mean that the South pays the tax. It is passed along like tariff in the form of increased price to those who ultimately purchase the finished cotton product.

The fact of the United States cotton crop which is exported is not affected by the processing tax, which tax applies only to cotton manufactured in this country, and is refunded when manufactured goods are exported.

The rising price of cotton since the adjustment program has been in effect shows that the processing tax has not had a depressing effect on price.
